Este carro lanzallamas era distinto del modelo con cañón de 90 mm en que el arma principal era reemplazada por un tubo conectado a un depósito con una mezcla de combustible a presión que podía proyectar una llamarada a 200 m. Varios de estos carros de combate combatieron en Hué, pero el lanzallamas se usó en raras ocasiones. En Hué, estos blindados fueron empleados como los modelos artillados, pero confiaron solo en sus ametralladoras para suprimir las posiciones enemigas.
